GREAT LANDLORDS.

ASTOR PROPERTY IN NEW YORK WORTH NEARLY $200,000,000.

There Is No Sentiment In the Management of This Vast Property—Tenants Must Face the Music—Not Very Progressive and Wait For Others to Lead.

We are all inclined to regard the great American landlord with disfavor. He is associated in our minds with the idea of high rents, demanded the instant they are due, with unfulfilled promises as to repairs and little improvements that would add so much to our comfort and with many other small annoyances that make him the man terrible, the man unfaithful, the man hostile.

Through the obscurity of these prejudices it is doubtful if many of us see him clearly or judge him fairly. According as we are near moving day or not and as we secure repairs we are apt to regard him as a very disagreeable person, indeed, with few of the higher human attributes or else the reverse, and in the meantime we pay rent and tolerate him because he continues to exist and the law protects him.

Perhaps the best example of the American landlord is Astor, or rather the Astors The interests of this famous New York family are so numerous and so extensive, so widely distributed and so varied in character, that as landlords they hold sway over all classes of society, occupying every kind of structure. Then, too, the Astors are typical in that no sentiment enters into the management of their properties, and, after all, this is true of the management of most real estate in this city.

As landlords the Astors demand the market rate for rents, and they demand it the first of every month or quarter, as the case may be. Sooner than make material concessions in the amount to be paid on a lease the Astors will allow a house to remain vacant, not one season or year only, but two, three or more years, and if then a good tenant is not at hand the building will be altered, provided the condition of the neighborhood requires it. It is apparent, therefore, that the Astors get the figures they ask. These are not the highest paid, for the estates take no risks, but they are well up to the average.

No one possibly requires more assurance of responsibility in tenants than the Astors. References as to character and financial standing must be forthcoming if you would be an Astor tenant, and they must be more than paper references, for they will be investigated carefully. If you are unknown or cannot show who you are and what you have got, and that you are fairly certain of being able to meet the rent for the term of the lease, do not try to rent an Astor house. You will be refused.

As a matter of fact, the Astor rent rolls, if one could secure copies of them, would be an excellent commercial directory, far more reliable within the limited sphere, perhaps, than anything ever attempted in this city. Ninety-five per cent of the persons whose names are on them pay the rent they agreed to pay on the first of every month. Those on the rolls who do not disappear when their leases are up or before if possible The Astors are not hard landlords, but they are very businesslike, and the dispossess proceeding is resorted to whenever occasion demands.

Though of Dutch stock the Astors have no feeling of friendliness for the liquor traffic. The saloon keeper is not wanted, even at the high rates he offers, and neither is any other sort of tenant who is likely to clash with the police. From time to time, of course, persons not in favor with the authorities creep into Astor properties, but when discovered they are ousted as quickly and as quietly as possible.

So far as improvements go, the estates are behind many of the other large landlords and a host of the smaller ones. Up to a very recent period the management of the family possessions was exceedingly unprogressive, and it is hardly up to what might be expected of it yet. It is urged in defense of this policy that various sections of the city in which Astor holdings are large are at present undergoing a change and that alterations appropriate in character will be made later. That is the trouble with the Astors. They are always backward in aiding a change. Their conservatism holds them in check, while smaller and weaker men take the risk, and often they stand in the way of progress by presenting immense blocks of property directly in the line of great improvements. If changes are effected all around them, they will alter also, but they are always the last to do so.

In the matter of individual repairs, decorations and the like they are not liberal, but they have the reputation of doing what they promise. Usually residences are put in order before the new tenant goes in, and then the occupant has got to be very careful. It is not expected by the estates that much money will be spent upon the house except at long intervals.

The Astors hold few tenements and flats directly, though they own the ground upon which hundreds of such structures stand. This kind of building is not popular with either branch of the family, and they only have to do with it so far as receiving leasehold rents are concerned. Dwellings in great number and comprising all kinds, from one bringing in hundreds yearly to one yielding thousands, and business and office buildings and hotels are chiefly the income producers aside from the leasehold properties.

How much those rents amount to perhaps only the Astors can tell, but the real estate of the two branches of the family is worth nearly $200,000,000, according to a conservative estimate, and most of it is rented. If it averaged 5 per cent, the yield would be $9,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year, to be divided between two men.—New York Herald.

Travelers shudder with horror at the thought of the train-wrecker who stealthily undermines the supports of a railway bridge and precipitates a passenger train with its load of precious human freight to a horrible death by fire and water. There is a deadlier enemy than the train-wrecker that menaces not only travelers but stay-at-homes. Its name is indigestion. It slowly undermines the supports that hold up the bridge of life and yearly precipitates untold thousands into the dread valley of consumption. If people will only take the right precaution they can avoid this calamity and even remedy it after it has occurred if they will act in time.

All cases of indigestion and every disease that has its inception in indigestion or faulty nutrition are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It cures wasting diseases. It is an unfailing remedy for nervous prostration. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. Thousands have testified to its merits. There is nothing else "just as good." Druggists sell it.

"I beg leave to inform you," writes Mrs. J. Shely, of No. 1701 Thomas Place, Minneapolis, Minn., "that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured my trouble in my neck—Goitre. It went away in three months. At the sixth bottle it began to grow smaller. Before, it had grown larger very perceptibly. I am very grateful for the cure."

Healthy babies. Healthy mother. Healthy father. These are what you find in the homes that have a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth binding, 31 stamps.

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1897.

EASTERN ADVERTISING OFFICE 230 to 234 Temple Court, New York City. E. Katz, Agent.

HEAVILY HANDICAPPED.

Resident Republicans, who are applicants for the principal offices at the United States mint at Carson, are heavily handicapped by the dishonesty of those who held positions in that institution under former Republican Administrations. The fact that $75,000 or more was stolen from the mint by men who were paid and sworn to protect the public property, and that almost all the prominent Republicans in the State, as well as the party press, did all in their power to shield the thieves from the just consequences of their crimes is now, according to reports from Washington, being used by non-resident Republicans as an argument against the appointment of Nevada Republicans to places of profit or trust in the mint.

It has developed that a trusted agent of the Treasury Department, who had been connected with the mints for a quarter of a century or more, was commissioned to visit Nevada and investigate the mint shortage. He spent some months in the State pending the trial of two of those charged with being responsible for the shortage, and is said to have taken notes of the proceedings, which he reported to his department with the names of prominent Republicans who took an active part in shielding the thieves, and extracts from newspapers, all Republican of course, which alleged that the Government was persecuting men, who had rendered valuable services to the party, because of their political principles. The reports of the agent are said to be on file in the archives of the Treasury Department, and are brought up to confront nearly every Republican from Nevada who applies for a position in the mint. It is not probable, therefore, that any Republican from the Western part of Nevada will be appointed Superintendent of the mint, and it is likely that a non-resident will be given the place.

Of course, there are honest Republicans in Nevada, men who condemned the mint robbery as they did the theft of $100,000 from the State School Fund some years ago, though the plunderers were connected with them by the ties of party, and it seems unjust to black list them for the offenses of their political associates, but the non-resident place hunter cares nothing for the right or wrong of it if he can only secure office by making it appear to the Administration that Nevada Republicans cannot be trusted in any position under the Government where they have an opportunity to steal. They point to the State treasury and the mint under Republican rule to show that the men who declared for free coinage in May and against it in July are predisposed to appropriating public funds to their own private uses whenever opportunity to do so is given them, and unfortunately for the Nevada applicant he cannot successfully refute the accusation.

THE SITUATION AT DAWSON.

The Alaska Commercial Company at San Francisco has received a letter from J. E. Hansen, Assistant Superintendent of the company's business in the Yukon region, in which he states that starvation is impending at Dawson. He says that at least one thousand persons will have a desperate struggle to keep alive this winter. There are now about 5,000 people at Dawson and at most not more than enough supplies to sustain 3,500 persons until the opening of the season next spring. It is evident under such conditions that some must suffer for food, if they do not die of actual starvation, during the winter.

This information is doubtless reliable. It comes from the trusted agent of a company that has been doing business in Alaska for years. He confirms the reports of a scarcity of provisions in Dawson and the Klondike mines, and as no considerable number of persons will lie down and quietly starve to death, while there are provisions in the camp, it is not improbable that serious riots will occur in the camp during the winter.

The Government has been asked to send a relief expedition to the Klondike, but it appears that there are no funds available for that purpose and nothing will be done until Congress meets and an appropriation is made for the relief of the starving Klondikers. Private parties are preparing to take provisions to the Yukon by way of Chilcoot Pass this winter. It is a hazardous undertaking, but the Government will have no great difficulty in finding hardy, able-bodied men to brave the rigors of an Alaskan winter to relieve their fellow men, and if Congress, which convenes next Monday, acts at once the expedition can be on the way to Alaska in ten days or less.

IT is now claimed by the Postoffice Department that the so-called "missing letter" and "missing word" contests conducted by a number of publishers and advertisers to increase their business comes under the lottery law. According to this law the Postmaster-General, if satisfactory evidence is produced that inducements of this character are offered to gain patronage, is required to prohibit the delivery of all mail matter addressed to such a concern.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report and Honor Rolls for November, 1897.

To the Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN:—I respectfully submit herewith my report for the school month ending November 19, 1897:

The attendance generally was good, the lowest, aside from the Kindergarten, being 94 per cent, and in most of the rooms it was 97 per cent or over.

There is in the different grades of the schools a spirit of ordliness and of interest in school work that bespeaks good instruction and kindly government; and on the school grounds we have less disturbance than for many years, although there is more play and sport. I think Reno boys—school boys, at least—are growing better in many ways.

Below are the statistical tables and the honor rolls:

DIPLOMACY.

The Astute Mayor Knew How to Help Along His Own Town.

A number of indignant citizens had filed into the office of the mayor of a small but progressive town.

"We called," said the spokesman of the party, "to see about your announcement that you would fight to the bitter end the proposal of those two railroad companies to lay tracks so as to connect."

"Well," was the reply, "what of it?"

"You don't deny saying it, then?"

"Certainly not."

"And yet you call yourself a wide awake man, competent to look after the interests of an ambitious community like this?"

"I am doing my best to deserve approval."

"Don't you realize that the junction of those two roads is one of the best things that could happen to this city?"

"Certainly."

"And yet you are doing your best to stop it?"

The mayor reflected for a few minutes and then said:

"Gentlemen, will you keep a secret?"

"If it's nothing detrimental to the city's interests."

"Well, I am just as anxious to have that work done as you are, but you know how they usually go about such things. If we let them alone, they'll begin work about the last of November, leave things torn up all winter and not finish before next summer is half over. Now, if they have really determined to make this improvement, my saying I disapprove of it won't change them, but it will have one effect—it'll put them on their mettle. They'll get together a gang of men some night and put them to work with lanterns and rush the job through so fast that there won't be any interruption of traffic whatever."—Washington Star.

Wouldn't Stand It.

The uniformed guard at the entrance of the Field Columbian museum stopped the man in the brown suit who was about to go in through the turnstile.

"I can't let you take that cane inside," he said.

"Why not?" demanded the other.

"It's against the rules. You'll have to check it at that window."

"What will that cost?"

"It will cost you 5 cents."

The man in the brown suit hesitated.

"This is the Field museum, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Marshall Field's?"

"Yes. He's the man it's named for."

"Well, I'll be everlastingly gumdasted if I'll stand it! I don't care for the nickel, but I bought this cane of Marshall Field, by jocks, and I'm not going to pay him for keeping it half an hour while I look at his old show!"

And he went away, uttering dreadful things.—Chicago Tribune.

The Bishop's Discomfiture.

There is an anecdote of a London bishop who, having read that story of John Wesley cutting out every word of his discourse that his servantmaid did not understand, determined to preach to a country congregation the simplest sermon he could write. He chose an elementary subject and took as his text, "The fool hath said in his heart there is no God." On leaving the church he asked the parish clerk what he thought of the sermon. "Oh, my lord," said he, "it was very fine—very fine and grand. I've been talking it over with Mr. Beard, and we said how fine it was. But, after all, we can't help thinking that there is a God."—Chambers' Journal.

Atlantic Currents.

It is an interesting fact in the records of scientific progress that the United States navy has for a long time past been dropping bottles overboard in the Atlantic ocean at the Azores, in deep water along the coast of Spain and from the Madeira and the Canaries southward along the coast of Africa. The fact that all these bottles that have been recovered have been found on the coast of South America, on the Antilles, and some of them as far west as the mouth of the Rio Grande, suggests the inference that every buoyant object which has been dropped into the ocean during the present geological epoch by prehistoric or historic Spaniards, Portuguese or Africans has found its way to America and been stranded somewhere between the tenth parallel south and the thirtieth parallel north. In the northern part of the Atlantic ocean the currents run the other way, and the mails have been delivered from America to Europe. In the Pacific ocean the daily mails delivered on the west coast of America from Mount St. Elias southward have proceeded from about the twentieth parallel north, in the vicinity of the Malay peninsula and archipelago, thence have traveled through the China sea and the Japanese sea to pick up matters designed for the western hemisphere.

Eureka Gas.

The name of Eureka gas is given to a new illuminant, expected to rival acetylene. This gas, as described in Invention and originated by M. Hector de Favi of Montefiascone, Italy, is obtained as follows: Lime as pure as possible is employed as a base, colophony and calcium carbide being added—1,000 parts of the mixture ready for use consisting of 900 of quicklime, 50 of colophony and 50 of calcium carbide—and there is said to be no liability of explosion by mixing with air. No heating of water and no special burner is needed. One thousand parts of the mixture give 60 liters of gas at a pressure of 35 milliliters of water, and the photometric intensity of the flame is stated to be 92.4 candle hours, while the same amount of calcium carbide employed singly would give only 18 candle hours. Thus, it is asserted, the new gas is 50 per cent cheaper than acetylene, or that at equal cost it will give half as much more light.

An Unerring Barometer.

The advertising columns of legitimate newspapers are now regarded by the more intelligent and thrifty portion of the public as an unerring barometer of the character, energy and success of business men, and those who fail to appreciate the now universally accepted method of reaching the people must fall behind in the race for business profits.—Philadelphia Times.

Jim Townsend says "some dear souls in the world are anxious to get right with God and yet they forget to square with the printer," and he adds, that "people should never be judged by appearances, for a shabby old coat may contain an editor, while the man wearing a hightoned plug hat may be a delinquent subscriber.

The last issue of the Gold Creek News was printed on brown paper and only covered a half sheet. What Mr. Dennis Has to Say.

In view of serious charges made against Attorney Jas. F. Dennis by certain papers, the JOURNAL man called upon him last evening and questioned him on the subject. After a few unimportant questions and answers, Mr. Dennis made the following statement:

"I was employed to defend four of the men who were arrested on a charge of stealing lumber from Fort Halleck and they paid me $100 each, or $400 in all. I believed in their innocence then and believe in it now. I am still their attorney and will labor to the end to try and have them acquitted, and will endeavor to accomplish it to the best of my ability.

"The report of any collusion between the late Chas. A. Jones and myself that was unlawful or unprofessional is false and without any foundation whatever. That Mr. Jones believed the men should not be prosecuted is evidenced by the fact that some months prior to their arrest he went to Elko and investigated the cases, and concluded not to prosecute them, but was subsequently ordered to do so by the Department of Justice at Washington and had no alternative but to place their cases before the Grand Jury, and which the court records will show he had prepared to do previous to his death. The indictments were presented by the present incumbent, Mr. Summerfield, and the Grand Jury saw fit to indict the men. I believe, them to be honest, industrious men, and hope they will be acquitted of any intent to do that which is unlawful. I have no explanations to make of my conduct, it has all been open, professional and fair and is satifactory to myself and my clients. Until after the trial, which is set for January 10, 1898, I shall take no steps towards prosecuting those who have grossly libeled me and Chas. A. Jones, deceased."

Mr. Dennis has a communication from Mr. Chartz, the Carson attorney, which says in substance that he had interviewed the defendants in the case and that they emphatically denied that Mr. Dennis had promised them anything, and had only expressed a hope that they would not be indicted. That at first they were laboring under the impression that Mr. Dennis should have appeared before the Grand Jury in their behalf, but had subsequently learned that such a proceeding was impossible and they had no complaint.

There seems to have been a serious mistake, and Mr. Dennis feels that he has been greatly wronged. What the outcome will be is yet hard to surmise.

W. C. T. U. Column.

Among the many interesting papers and reports of temperance work given at the National Convention last month we quote the following on Scientific Temperance Instruction by Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, of Massachusetts: "It is not too much to say that the yearly report of what is being done in the public schools and colleges of this country for the scientific temperance education of its children and youth is a forecast of the future of our nation. The first temperance education law in the United States was enacted in November, 1882. During the fifteen years which have since rolled away, a work of like legislation has gone on in our National Congress and state legislature, until our entire country is under more or less stringent laws requiring scientific temperance instruction for all pupils in all schools under the national or State control except those in four States—Virginia, Georgia, Arkansas and Utah. It is not too much to hope and expect that the opening of the twentieth century will see our temperance education map all white, because legal provision has been made for the temperance education of all the children of all the public schools of this country. The great gain of this year has been the revision of the temperance education law of Illinois, the crowning victory of the most memorable battle. Under the shadow of the home and tomb of the great emancipator, Abraham Lincoln; from the pulpits and platforms and through the press and mails of the state, we appealed to the people—the fathers and mothers, for the temperance education of their 1,000,000 children in the Illinois public schools. The appeal was not in vain. There is crying need that this important phase of temperance work should cease to be a department and in all the unions, National, State and local, should be made a branch whose needs should be estimated according to their relation to the great object for which we are organized, viz., to secure total abstinence in the individual and the legal abolition of the sale of alcoholic drinks. I repeat what I said last year: Tell me what you are doing for the enforcement of your temperance education law, and I will tell you how long the saloon will be the controlling power in your States. When public sentiment is too intelligent to drink what the saloon sells the saloon will be abolished.

DEATH.

Death. That is only another name for cigarettes. That so many thousands should smoke the vile things is astonishing. But it is not more so than the apathy of the public in view of continued growth of the habit.

Dr. T. L. Peiro is a specialist on catarrhal and throat diseases, and has had large experience in treating cigarette users. His practice is largely among theatrical people. These, he says, are almost universally smokers of cigarettes—both men and women. The doctor says: "I am perfectly familiar with the cigarette. There is nothing that so undermines the physical and mental life. Cigarettes are becoming more vicious every day. The chemical compositions are being changed so as to secure an immediate effect. The ends of some brands are dipped in cocaine so that as soon as touched by the moisture of the lips the dull, soothing effect of the poison is felt before the smoking is begun. I know all about the way that they are made, and it is true that the stumps of cigars from the filth of the streets and other places are used in their manufacture. Chopped straw soaked in nicotine and doctored up is also largely used. The strongest plug tobacco is soaked in the water and used to impregnate with nicotine the materials used in making cigarettes. There is no poison more virulent than nicotine, except prussic acid. Tobacco effectively opposes all remedies a doctor can give."—W. C. T. U. Editors.

A Story That Was Not Told.

An accomplished interviewer went to get the story of an old hermit who lives on a little lake in the upper part of the state where only a few clearings break the monotony of forest. A delicate approach was made to the main subject and then the six footer, with long white beard and hair, was asked if he had a family.

"Certainly," came the response. "I've tried to play my proper part in the world just like any other man who has an idea that he was put here for something."

"Where are your folks?"

"Back east, where I left them. My wife and five children have a fine home on a big farm. To be accurate, it's one of the finest in the state."

"Do they ever come to see you?"

"They were all up here about four weeks ago. Brought their bedding with them, hunted, fished, visited and had a good time generally. My youngest boy wants to take up some land and make a farmer of himself."

"Do you ever intend to go back where they are to make your home?"

"No. I like it here; they like it there. What's the sense of either them or me putting in the time where it's not enjoyable?"

"Did you have an trouble with your wife?"

The old man sat and smoked and seemed to be in deep study.

"Trying to put the story together?" asked the interviewer.

"No, young man. I was just having a mental debate whether I'd throw you through the window or give you three minutes to get off the place."

In less than half the time the hermit was alone.—Detroit Free Press.

NOBODY KNOWS BUT MOTHER.

How many buttons are missing today?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many playthings are strewn in her way?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many thimbles and spools has she missed?
How many burns on each fat little fist?
How many bumps to be cuddled and kissed?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many hats has she hunted today—
Nobody knows but mother—
Carelessly hiding themselves in the hay?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many handkerchiefs willfully strayed?
How many ribbons for each little maid?
How for her care can a mother be paid?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many muddy shoes all in a row?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many stockings to darn, do you know?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many little torn aprons to mend?
How many hours of toil must she spend?
What is the time when her day's work shall end?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many lunches for Tommy and Sam—
Nobody knows but mother—
Cookies and apples and blackberry jam—
Nobody knows but mother—
Nourishing dainties for every "sweet tooth,"
Toddling Dottie or dignified Ruth?
How much love sweetens the labor, forsooth?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many cares does a mother's heart know?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many joys from her mother love flow?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many prayers by each little white bed?
How many tears for her babes has she shed?
How many kisses for each curly head?
Nobody knows but mother.

And He Couldn't Have Both.

Stokeleigh—Why don't you get married, old man?

Brokeleigh—Debarred by custom.

Stokeleigh—How so?

Brokeleigh—Well, while it is permissible for me to appear in public without a wife it is not permissible for me to do so without clothes.—Brooklyn Life.

WHEN I GET TIME.

When I get time,
I know what I shall do,
I'll cut the leaves of all my books,
And read them through and through.

When I get time,
I'll write some letters then
That I have owed for weeks and weeks
To many, many men.

When I get time,
I'll pay those bills I owe,
And with those bills, those countless bills,
I will not be so slow.

When I get time,
I'll regulate my life
In such a way that I may get
Acquainted with my wife.

When I get time—
Oh, glorious dream of bliss!—
A month, a year, ten years from now!
But I can't finish this—
I have no time. —Vogue.

A PIANO FULL OF WASPS.

They Kept Quiet Until the Professor Struck the Loud Notes.

The piano was an old grand. It had not been used for months. The company had arrived in town but a short time before the performance began; hence there had been no time to test the instrument. Nevertheless, the professor boldly opened wide the lids of the long unused grand and then sat down to the keys. The first touch convinced him that the notes were still clear and strong, and that whatever defects in tune there might be would be very slight, so he began the soul inspiring selection.

Now, it happened that in all the months in which the piano had remained unused a colony of yellow jacket wasps had industriously built themselves a home in the shape of a nest as large as a good sized saucer. The soft pianissimo prelude to the selection gently woke the wasps from their sweet dreams. But when the soft pedal was released and the notes grew vigorous and the piano began to reverberate to the heavier passages the disturbed wasps suspected danger. They curled their backs and stretched and shook their gauzy wings viciously. The professor, unheedful of the fact that the music, far from soothing the savage breast of the vicious wasps ambushed within that piano, was rousing their ire, played on. From pianissimo to piano and from piano with one bound to fortissimo the composition ran. All the while the wasps fluttered their wings wickedly, viciously, and all the while the professor played. Now came the climax; now he was throwing together vast handfuls of notes in the basso profundo region of the instrument. Just as the grand was belching forth from its innermost soul the musical thunder of that great Wagnerian opera, the vengeance hunting army of yellow jacket wasps swept out of the instrument, with a buzzing war song, down the hallway and upon the audience. Suddenly soul rending shrieks resounded through the hall. Men and women were striking about their heads, benches were upset, and a general stampede for windows and doors ensued. Over the terrible uproar a shrill, piping voice could be heard shrieking:

"Sharlie, come mit! Ach, Sharlie, come mit!"

Long before the outraged burghers of Kerrville were up a little band of men with baggage galore wended their way out of the town and sat down on the railroad track. They were the stereoptico-musical aggregation of San Antonio, and their faces, as they recounted the horrors through which they had passed, were the image of that of Napoleon on the night of Waterloo. They flagged the south bound passenger train and took passage for San Antonio. Their wisdom in slipping out of town under cover of night has never been questioned.—San Antonio Express.

The Usual Way.

There are some society girls who like to marshal together all the trophies of a season, in the shape of euchre prizes, german favors and invitations galore to all sorts of functions, where they may be seen of men and bring green eyed glances of jealousy into the eyes of other girls not favored quite so much, but the queerest effort of this kind that ever came under the notice of the writer was a pyramid of empty candy boxes stacked up from floor to ceiling in a corner of the parlor. The largest was, of course, at the base, and there was every make and style, gradually diminishing to the top. This dashing girl, with the immense capacity for destroying candy, excepted every male visitor to add to the number as she started a plant in each of the other corners of the room. Of course a tremendous rivalry went on among her visitors and admirers to get the finest and most unique native and imported boxes. Strange to say, she married a man who had never added a lone box to the pile, but he helped to destroy some of the most toothsome offerings of other fellows.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Woman's Movement.

The presidents of the 23 literary clubs which compose the Federation of Women's Clubs in Kentucky at a recent meeting which they held for the purpose of interchanging ideas upon club work decided among other things to endeavor to establish a bird day in the public schools of the different cities of the state. This will be one effort in a movement to preserve the birds. The presidents will also use their influence to have literature upon the subject disseminated, as they believe women are ignorant of the vast destruction of birds caused by their feather trimmed hats.

An English writer asserts that there never was any Grub street in London, the name having been invented by Pope. Hungry authors became identified with that street because they were always trying to find it.
